Whilst Cairns are a relatively healthy and robust breed it might be easy to think there is no reason to eye test your dogs - I haven't had a problem so why test? - is the phrase often heard.... But for a small fee you can start annually testing your Cairns eyes and be sure that there are no problems arising. If issues are found then you are best placed to seek a solution with early treatment.

Over time you can build up a record of test results and be able to feel confident that your dogs are healthy rather than just guessing....
